From March 9th to April 6th, 2023, the FOFA Gallery hosts the work of rudi aker, Pansee Atta, Amin Rehman and Swapnaa Tamhane in the group exhibition re imagining / créer / building / faire / mapping / connaissance /...*

*re allows for the possibilities to unlearn and relearn the diverse world-making practices that continue to exist and thrive, despite colonial attempts to eradicate them under the guise of progress.

The exhibition is conceived as a critical and collective reflection on the themes of worlding and world-making. We understand world-making as an endeavor that creates life, cosmos, heaven and earth; a sacred act contributing to the pluriversality of modes of being; a practice that has always guarded itself against the worlding desires of colonial, heteronormative and patriarchal modes of being.

*re offers a counterpoint to colonial histories and archival practices. The artworks included in the exhibition reimagine and redefine ideas around time, space, land and languages. The works of artists rudi aker, Pansee Atta, Amin Rehman, and Swapnaa Tamhane foreground different possibilities for reclaiming languages and histories, resisting and refuting imposed geographies, and reframing pasts and futures.

- Manar Abo Touk, Lorraine Doucet Sisto, and Varda Nisar, exhibition curators

*re will be simultaneously on view at the Webster Library's exhibition space on the 2nd floor from March 30 to June 1, 2023. A two-day conference will take place March 31 and April 1, 2023.
